George M. Stroup has made applica tion in the circuit court in Portland for a divorce from Jane Stroup, to whom he was married Oct. 7, 1865, in Musca tine, In. He accuses the defendant of infidelity, and alludes to a particular instance said to have occurred at Albany, this state. Silas Gilmore, Dr. G. A. Whitney and George Westbrooke are named as co-respondents. Whitney & Newport, of Albany, are attorneys for Mrs. Stroup. The first two men named as co-respondents have been dead for several years.

The council of admistration of the department of Oregon, Grand Army of the Republic, had a special meeting on Thursday last, at department headquarters in Portland, says the Oregonian. The special business was the fixing of the date for the holding of the next department encampment. Independence was selected as the place by the last encampment, but the date for holding it was left to the council of administration. After a full discussion of the different dates suggested, June 11, 12 and 13 were selected as those which would best accommodate all concerned. The attendance a this meeting was the largest ever held of the council at any called meeting, Department Commander Allen reported the work of organization in this department as being in a good, healthy condition, notwithstanding the hard times. Assistant Adjutant-General Morse reported a gain of four posts, two by muster and two by reinstatement, since the June report, and a total gain of membership of 120. It is now confidently expected to make a gain of at least 200 before the holding of the next encompment.

Not content with papering the inside of the trolley cars with advertisements, the enterprising advertiser now charters a car complete, and covers the outside with posters and streamers illustrating any particular class of goods. They carry no passengers, but a band of music serves the purpose of attract-ing particular attention to the car and its advertising legends. This practice has been popular in Philadelphia for some time.

In England tomato plants have been grafted on potato plants, giving a crop of tomatoes above ground and potatoes below. Potatoes grafted on tomatoes have produced flowers, tomatoes and i few tubers. An experiment in this direction was made during the past season in Wisconsia. Two tubers were planted in separate pots in March, and when about 5 inches high the plant was cut off half an inch from the level of the soil and a graft of a tomato introduced. The result was that the potato, nourished by the tomato plant above ground, produced a crop of potatoes in the pot, and also the tomato plant above ground produced a fairly good crop of tomatoes, nourished by the potato roots in the pot.

The Surety Company and its Spotters

The following is taken from the Ashland Tidings: "The dismissal of Con-ductors W. H. Jamieson and Jack Andrews from the service of the S. P. Co. has been considerably discussed in railroad circles the past week. The Kansas City surety com-pany, which furnishes bonds for all the S. P. couductors, is said to be the cause of the trouble, with which the railroad company itself is not interested. The surety company is an arbitrary cold-blooded association, and one of its 'spotters' checked up Jamieson's train and reported two fares from Roseburg and one from Phoenix to Ashland short. The surety company withdrew from his bond and of course the railroad company could not retain according to its rules a conductor who could not furnish bonds, although Jamisson's numerous friends maintain that if he were given a hearing he could easily vindicate himself. Conductor Andrews was desirous of retiring from railroading, anyway, and the loss of his position will not inconvenhim, it is said."

A telegraphic dispatch from Providence, R. I., dated Feb. 21, reads as follows: "Fire was discovered in the big brick passenger station of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad at I a. m., and it spread to rapidly that in 15 minutes the building was doomed. The train dispatchers and many employes in the office had barely time to escape, and all records of the road were destroyed. The building was leveled within an hour, and many firemen had narrow escapes when the walls felt. The loss is unknown, but will exceed $200,000." This depot was a union depot, and there is no other depot of any size in that city.

Important Notice.

All persons are hereby notified that the city council has passed an ordi-nance providing for the taking up and killing of unlicensed dogs.
